

DUXBURY SPECIAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT
PROUDLY PRESENTS

What is Co-Teaching? How Does It Benefit My Child?

Attention: All Duxbury Public School Parents!

Parent workshop for parents of children with and without disabilities.

Rebecca A. Hines, Ph.D.

Associate Professor

Department of Child, Family, and Community Sciences
University of Central Florida, Orlando, FLA

Dr. Hines will share her unique insights into how the inclusive, co-teaching classroom benefits all students.

Dr. Hines presents to teachers and families across the country. She brings her experience from teaching as a language arts teacher, a teacher of students with severe emotional disturbance in a self contained setting, and as a middle school co-teacher. She has also done extensive research in inclusion classrooms, universal design for learning and technology in the classroom.

Free Admission

Monday March 27, 2017

6:30 to 8:00 PM

Presentation Hall

Duxbury Middle/High School

71 Alden Street

Duxbury, MA